Trip Overview

The 12-day Nepal Bhutan Tour is a blended adventure that explores two median countries squeezed between two Asian powerhouses, China and India. Are you talking about the tour in Bhutan and Nepal? The time is an exclusive blend of natural elegance, unique culture, and warm hospitality that any visitor worldwide wishes for.

First, Nepal is considered the 8th wonder of the world and is a significant tourist hotspot worldwide.

From towering Himalayas to majestic hills, from the deepest valleys to the Terai range, the country is varied with never-before-seen landscapes. The government is a threshold of unique culture, customs, vibrant festivals, and a bold history. Nepal is considered a garden of 4 castes, and 36 subcastes have different exposure to tradition, culture, and festivals.

As soon as you chip into Tribhuvan International Airport in Nepal, you will explore the cities of the historical temple in Kathmandu. The proud abode of the seven UNESCO Heritage Sites will take you deep roots in Bhutan and Nepal Tour packages.

Nepal-Bhutan Tour Booking Agency in Kathmandu for 12 days

Boundless Adventure is a local tour and trekking company in Kathmandu. We will operate the Nepal Bhutan Tour from Kathmandu in 2024 and 2025. Contact us to book a Nepal and Bhutan tour in Kathmandu. Likewise, another nearby destination is Pokhara, which entices millions of visitors across the globe and is a gateway to various trekking circuits like Mount Annapurna, Mount Everest, and Mt. Manaslu.

Another destination awaits us after ascending towards Pokhara, known as upper Mustang, "An ancient forbidden kingdom," heftily known as supper landscapes. Similarly, marching towards the fertile land of Terai, the tour in Nepal includes Chitwan National Park and Bardiya National Park, a household of 70 unique creatures.

Likewise, to seek inner peace, we can explore the birthplace of Lord Buddha in Lumbini, Nepal. Contact us for Nepal Bhutan tour information and costs for 2024 and 2025, whether you are solo, family, or small group.

After about a 1-hour flight from Kathmandu, we advance to the last Shangri-La Nation, "Bhutan." Chattering about Bhutan, the land enduring in the splash of the Himalayas is extensively known for its profound Buddhist culture. However, the hidden mysteries of the small land are somewhat blurry, unleashing some of those in the Bhutan tour.

The tiny kingdom of Bhutan is the only carbon-negative nation in this universe. However, the outer world explored the isolated country in the fierce mountain passes in the late 60s.

Since then, the government has become the central focus in the eyes of the world. Let us take you on a glimpse of the Bhutan Tour commencing through Paro Valley. Surrounded by peaks and valleys, the Paro International Airport is one of the most taxing airports; it lies at an altitude of about 2235 m above sea level.

The Paro Valley encompasses monasteries, temples, and scenic spots. The most inspected location on the Bhutan Tour is Tiger's Nest, about 12 km from Paro Valley, which is accessible after a two-hour mesmerizing trekking journey. Another desirable location is Chele La Pass, which offers a captivating view of the Land of Thunder Dragon.

Similarly, Tamchoe Monastery and Zuri Zong Fort would make our journey worthwhile. About an hour's drive from Paro International Airport lies the capital city of Bhutan, Thimphu. The hustling city is a prime example of a town crafted with hints of modernism and traditionalism. Thus, another intriguing experience awaits us in the valley of Thimphu.

Several attractions are essential locations, including the National Post Office, the Clock Tower Star, Chari Monasteries, and Buddha Dordenma. Similarly, the country, enriched in flora and fauna, is blanketed with vast wilderness and protected by strict rules and regulations.

Overall, the Nepal-Bhutan tour is not just a tour; it is a lifetime experience to witness two analogous countries rich in natural beauty, culture, and bold history. If you are prone to Adventure mingled with culture, tours in Bhutan and Nepal are the perfect combo waiting for you.

Nepal and Bhutan, the serene land of Nepal and Bhutan, welcome millions of visitors with warm hospitality. Every second on the ground in Nepal and Bhutan is worth it, and we, Boundless Adventure, ensure you have the best time on your trip to Nepal and Bhutan.

Nepal and Bhutan Tour Cost

The Nepal and Bhutan tour cost varies on several factors, including duration of the trip, season, service, size of the group, accommodation, transportation, and activities included.

The Nepal and Bhutan tour includes the tour of two countries (Nepal and Bhutan), and you can complete the tour within 9-10 days. However, we have a facility to customize the package. We can manage your trip if you want to expand or shorten it. And the cost varies according to your customized tour package.

The group size dramatically affects the overall cost of the Nepal Bhutan Tour. Solo travelers cost more than traveling with a group. We provide group discounts, and the more you are in a group, the more we can discount you. Furthermore, if you are alone and comfortable mixing with other groups, we'll manage that also to minimize your cost.

The season is another factor affecting your Nepal and Bhutan trekking cost, as traveling in peak season costs more than traveling in the low season. Furthermore, if you prefer any luxurious and additional facilities included in the package, you need to pay extra, causing additional costs for the tour.

Sightseeing During the Nepal Bhutan Tour

Kathmandu Sightseeing

The journey to Nepal Bhutan begins with a sightseeing tour of Kathmandu, one of the most beautiful cities in Nepal. On the Kathmandu sightseeing day, you'll glimpse Kathmandu's rich cultural, religious, and architectural heritage.

The first sightseeing destination on tour is "the Museum of Temple," Kathmandu Durbar Square. The Durbar Square is a site of world UNESCO heritage that holds great significance to the culture and history of Kathmandu. On tour, you'll see many attractions in the Kathmandu Durbar Square, including Hanuman Dhoka Palace, Basantapur Tower, Swet Bhairav Temple, the Taleju Temple, and Kumari Ghar, where the living goddess Kumari lives.

After sightseeing at Kathmandu Durbar square, you'll move for sightseeing of the sacred site for Hindus, Pashupatinath temple. The temple lies on the bank of the Bagmati River. It is also a world UNESCO heritage site. The temple is not only for pilgrimage purposes but also a tourist destination. You will be pleased to explore the Pashupatinath area as it will provide you peace of mind.

Kathmandu sightseeing concludes with a visit to Boudhanath temple, another UNESCO heritage site and the largest Buddhist Stupa in Nepal. The stupa is beautifully built with a dome-shaped structure and decorated with mandalas, statues, and colorful prayer flags. It is a major attraction. Furthermore, the surrounding monastery and butter lamp ceremony add to its beauty.

Thimphu Sightseeing

Thimphu, the capital of Bhutan, is your first sightseeing destination. The town is famous for its beautiful scenery and unique Buddhist Culture. Your sightseeing day begins with a walk to Memorial Chorten, also called Thimphu Chorten, which was constructed in 1974. The chorten follows the Tibetan architectural style and has a pinnacle pillar that crowns a crescent moon and sun.

After memorial chorten exploration, you'll continue sightseeing at Zilukha Nunnery. The nunnery is Bhutan's most significant and most considerable monetary source. The monastery is in the atmosphere of nature, and you'll get a peaceful environment.

Takin Sanctuary is another day to explore Thimphu, the unique conservation area of Bhutan. In Takin Sanctuary, you will see Bhutan's national animals. You will also explore the Textile Museum, Heritage Museum, Indigenous Hospital, Traditional School of Arts and Crafts, Tashicho Dzong, and the paper factory in Thimphu.

Paro Sightseeing

Paro sightseeing is on the final day of your itinerary. Paro is one of the popular tourist destinations and historic towns in Bhutan. You'll begin your sightseeing day on Paro by Tiger Tiger's Nest monastery. Tiger's Nest monastery, also known as Tatsang, lies at the cliffside of the top of the Paro. One of the significant attractions of Tiger's Nest Monastery is its unique location on the rugged Himalayas. The stunning view from the top of the city and the decoration and architecture of the town are eye, and you'll approach a traditional farmhouse between meadows and a terraced hillside. In the farmhouse, you can learn about the agricultural practices that have sustained Bhutanese people since ancient times. Also, you can get a delicious and healthy meal prepared with fresh and locally available ingredients while experiencing the warm hospitality of the Bhutanis.

You'll continue your sightseeing by visiting the National Museum on the western side of Bhutan. The museum is equally crucial for cultural, historical, and educational purposes. You can learn about Bhutan's rich heritage at the museum by exploring artifacts, manuscripts, and artworks from ancient times to the present. In the evening, you'll roam around the local market of Paro.

Bumthang sightseeing

Another beautiful sightseeing valley on the Nepal Bhutan Tour is Bumthang Valley. The valley is significant to Bhutan's culture and history and offers many places to visit. The sightseeing in Bumthang begins with a visit to the Royal Place at Chumey Valley. Before reaching Chumey Valley, you'll cross Yotang La Pass at 3,436m/ 11,272ft. As you get to the palace, the majestic beauty of its architecture captures your attention. You'll learn the rich history and culture of the region.

After sightseeing, you'll have a short hike to Prakar Monastery. The literary meaning of the monastery is White Monkey, built in the 16th century. Upon getting closer to Prakar, you'll feel peacefulness by looking at the monastery building and its location in the backdrop of the mountain.

Your next sightseeing destination is Yathra Weaving Center after Pakra Monastery. While the area's Bhutanese people do farming for sustenance, the Bumthang people are different; they weave Yathra products for their livelihood. At the Yathra Weaving Center, you can see the traditional art of Yathra weaving. You'll be able to learn about the method of making Bhutanese clothes.

You'll also visit historic Jhankar Dzong, which is rich in architectural beauty and offers panoramic views of the surrounding areas. Kurjey Temple, Tamshing Temple, and Jhambhey Lhakhang are the other areas of the Bumthyou'llere where you'll go sightseeing. Additionally, we'll get permission to visit the fruit and beer factory in Bumthang.

Day 05: Thimphu Sight Seeing

The capital city of Bhutan is a mediocre city in terms of population, but in terms of cultural and historical treasures, none could match the city. The capital has a lot to offer the visitors, even walking and toiling around the streets would be a fascinating experience.

Early in the morning, you can take a walk (through our guidance as well) to The Memorial Chorten, where a lot of people gather around mainly for prayers and some for-fitness purposes.

The afternoon arrives with bright hopes in the Land of Thimphu. We step towards Zilukha Nunnery and the Changangkha Temple. Then a short trip to a paper factory is scheduled for later in the day. We stayed overnight at a hotel in Thimphu.

Day 06: Thimphu to Trongsa

Another proximate destination is waiting for us in the hills of Bhutan. Early in the morning, we set up for Punakha, the previous capital city of Bhutan. The journey is full of adventures and spellbinding stoppages. Ascending towards the altitude of 3000 m, we reach Dochu-La Pass, which is influential for the broader vision of the tallest mountain of Bhutan, Gangkar Punsam, and other Easter Himalayan ranges.

Later we move through a diverge road via naturally dense forest towards the riches of Punakha Valley. The city of Wangdiphodrang welcomes us, and we spend some time visiting the sleeping bull, another fortress in the valley.

Afterwards, we escalate towards the Pele Last Pass, which lies at an elevation of about 3500 m; here, we notice the mesmerizing views of lofty peaks in white snow. Then the lunch for the day is waiting for us in the Chedebji Chorten stupa.

Once we arrive at Trongsa, we inspect one of the ancient dzongs of Bhutan named Trongsa Dzong. Finally, the day is off, and we schedule our stay in the hotel. It will take (6-7 hours)

Day 07: Trongsa to Bumthang

Another beautiful day is waiting for us in the valleys of Bhutan. Today, we embark on our travel towards the Yotang La Pass after breakfast, and we slide down into the Chumey Valley.

The initial valley of Bumthang is the least in density, with a minimum number of households and people. The main things to do here are to tour the royal palace and take a short, simple hike up to the Prakar Monastery.

Similarly, another noticeable element is the Yathra Weaving Centre, where colourful textiles are manufactured. It is 2 hours & 30 minutes in total.

Then we move towards the pivotal location of Bumthang Valley, Jhankar. Likewise, the afternoon visit is scheduled for Dzong, Kurjey Temple, Tamshing Temple, and the most respected Jhambhey Lhakhang. Alongside this, we can visit the fruit and beer factory if allowed.

Bhumthang Valley: The valley of Bhumthang is the most fertile land in the whole of Bhutan, and the valley holds a significant history in terms of culture and religion. Thus, the valley abides by countries with the deepest secrets.

Like every other day, we wander for another adventurous journey in the valley of Bhumthang. After a sweet breakfast, we exploit Punakha Dzong at our suitable time. Then we start a short hike towards the holy temple of Chimi Lakhang. Afterwards, the journey is set for Punakha.

Chimi Lakhang: Unlike other temples in Bhutan, Chimi Lakhang is the most unusual one. The monastery, graced by the frantic Buddhist leader Drukpa Kunley is also known as the Fertility Temple. Even the temple structure is pretty strange; many penises surround it.

The location lies about 10 kilometres from the Punakha Valley, and we reach a small village named Sopsokha. The path above brings our eyes another joy through agricultural settlements, and after about half an hour, we step foot into the holy monastery.

Essential Information

Best Season For Travelling to Nepal and Bhutan

While Nepal and Bhutan's weather conditions are similar, the best time to travel depends on your preference. Both countries have four distinct seasons: spring, Summer, Autumn, and Winter.

Spring in Nepal and Bhutan is ideal for touring. It starts at the beginning of March and ends at the end of May. In Nepal, the weather starts to get warm, days are mild, and flowers bloom during the Spring. Like Nepal, the weather gets warmer and pleasant with blossoms and lush greenery, creating the perfect time for traveling in Bhutan.

Summer is the monsoon season in Nepal and Bhutan, which lasts from June to August. However, if you are on a tour exploring activities, you won't be affected by the monsoon. The weather is sunny, with lush greenery in both countries. So summer is also a favorable season for Nepal and Bhutan tours, even with the changes in rainfall.

Autumn in Nepal and Bhutan, from September to November, is a popular time to visit. The weather is clear, the skies are bright, and temperatures are comfortable, making it perfect for sightseeing, outdoor activities, and cultural experiences.

The winter season in Nepal and Bhutan runs from December to February. Both countries face snowfall above 3000m meters in both. Although winter brings cold temperatures, it is the perfect time to see panoramic mountain views and take tours of Nepal and Bhutan.

While each season is unique, the best time depends on one's preference. The choice to visit also depends on your tolerance for weather conditions. So before touring, consider the weather conditions first for your safety.

Bhutan Culture and Traditions

In Bhutan, 22% of the inhabitants are Hindus, 0.2% are Muslim, 0.4% are of other religions, and 75% are Buddhist. Hence, Buddhism is deeply rooted in Bhutan's culture and traditions. The majority of the population of Bhutan follows Buddhism, and the religion of Buddhism has a significant role among Bhutanese inhabitants. Hundreds of monasteries and temples all over Bhutan are showcasing the religion's importance and serving as spiritual centers.

Once every year, Bhutan celebrates the festival/ Tsechu of Dzong. People from the nearby areas and tourists also visit Bhutan to observe the festival. The celebrations involve cultural dances, religious rites, and cultural visuals. Tsechus in Bhutan are not just occasions for celebrating religion but also for socializing and building relationships with each other.

The dress worn by the Bhutanese people showcases the country's identity. The locals of Bhutan wear a Driglam Namzha dress code, with men wearing Gho, a robe that reaches the knee and is secured at the waist with a belt, and women wearing Kira, a long, colored wrap-around skirt with a blouse and jacket.

Bhutan has a long tradition and history of making handicrafts, such as wood carving, painting, weaving, and sculpting. The artisans create beautiful textiles, wooden masks, thangka paintings, and religious items that attract domestic and global attention.

Additionally, Bhutan's national symbol reflects the country's Culture, history, and natural history. The emblem features a lotus, jewels, a dragon, and a double-diamond thunderbolt, symbolizing spiritual and secular power.
