- Explore the Highest Base Camp in the world within 12 days, which is a short time.
- Discover a thrilling hillside flight with stunning Himalayan views.
- Connect footbridges at a high altitude that are covered in vibrant Buddhist monasteries.
- Find out the customs and culture of the Sherpa people.
- The best viewpoints are Namche Bazaar, Khumjung, Tyangbouche, Kalapathar, and Everest Base Camp.

Trip Overview

Short Everest Base Camp Trek, lasting 12 days, is a hike around the Mount Everest region, the world's highest peak on earth, in the Himalayas. It is positioned in the middle of two countries, Tibet and Nepal. The name Sagarmatha, given to the mountain in the dignity of George Everest, has many definitions in Nepali.

Everest is much more than just a mountain; reaching it takes more than a straightforward trek. At every turn of the tour, which others have dubbed "the steps to heaven," images capture the scenery of woodlands, mountain guides, villages, glacial moraines, and foothills.

For enthusiastic explorers who are not frightened to work up a sweat, our entire trekker's support team will introduce you to a native culture before drawing air to the top of the world.

Boundless Adventure Trekking Company provides a beautiful and comfortable journey for a 12-day Everest Base Camp trek in Sagarmatha National Park. We offer a short trek around Kathmandu in 2024 and 2025.

The altitude of Mount Everest is 8848.86 meters (17,598 feet) above sea level. However, the neighboring peaks are Mount Nuptse, 7,861 meters; Mount Lhotse, 8516 meters; and Lhotse Shar, 8383 meters high. They are also very famous for expeditions. However, the walkable altitude of Mount Everest Base Camp is 5364 meters from sea level.

Most hikers worldwide get inspired by discussing Nepal's short trek (EBC). The 12-day short Everest trek is on the eastern Himalayan route, and multitudes of idealistic travelers have gained relevant experience.

The Everest expedition began in 1920 AD, but due to moving glaciers, there was never a permanent base Camp. The journey, led by a team of Sir Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay, decided to make it more feasible to keep materials at the mountain's foot.

The first challenge for all those trying an Everest push is the Khumbu Icefall, which starts outside the door. Similarly, the Shor trek in the Everest region 12 days can be completed within 12 days from Kathmandu. For that, you are required to take a small aircraft to Lukla airport and then take off from Lukla to Kathmandu at the end of the trek.

Sagarmatha National Park

Most trekkers trek to Everest Base Camp, and many climbers climb Mount Everest in the Khumbu area. Similarly, there are not just one mountain and Base camp. Many people went to Base Camp and Mount Everest because it is the highest mountain in the world. However, you are trekking or traveling into the Sagarmatha National Park. You can see many different wild animals along the trekking trails.

The best viewpoint in 12-Day Trek

You will have the best views of Mt. Manaslu, Mt. Langtang Himalayan Range, and Mt. Shishapangma while you take off from Kathmandu domestic airport. Similarly, you will have closer Himalayan views, forests, and farmers' fields on a terrace along the way to Lamjura Pass.

Here are closer views of Tabuchi Peak, Kongde Peak, and Pokalde Peak, right between Lamjura Peak and Lukla Airport. After an hour from the Lukla airport on the trek to Phakding, you will have another great idea of Mt. Kushang Kangaru.

On the second day, you will have better first views of Mount Everest and Mt. Amadablam than just before Namche Bazaar. Moreover, there are many famous named peaks such as Amadablam, Tabouche Peak, Pumori, Island Peak, Gokyo Peak, Lobuche West and East Peaks, and Mount Everest, which can all be seen on the third day while exploring Namche Bazaar.

Attractions of short EBC trek

Stunning mountain views:

The Everest region has several mountain peaks, including fourteen above 8000m. Indeed, mountain peaks are one of the primary attractions of the 12-day short Everest Base Camp trek.

You will have the best views of Mt. Manaslu, Mt. Langtang Himalayan Range, and Mt. Shishapangma while you take off from Kathmandu domestic airport. Similarly, you will have closer Himalayan views, forests, and farmers' fields on a terrace along the way to Lamjura Pass.

Trekkers have an ideal view of Tabuchi Peak, Kongde Peak, and Pokalde Peak, right between Lamjura Peak and Lukla Airport. After three hours from the Lukla airport on the trek to Phakding, they get another great view of Mt. Kushang Kangaru along the way.

On the second day, you'll have your first views of Mount Everest and Mt. Amadablam just before Namche Bazaar. Moreover, there are many famous named peaks such as Amadablam, Tabouche Peak, Pumori, Island Peak, Gokyo Peak, Lobuche West and East Peaks, and Mount Everest, which can all be seen on the third day while exploring Namche Bazaar.

Namche Bazaar:

At an elevation of 3500 m (11482 ft), Namche Bazaar is another charm of the Everest region and the Everest short trek. Namche Bazaar is a gateway and starting point for the many trekking destinations in the Everest region. Namche Bazaar stands on the slope of the arch-shaped hilltop, providing majestic mountain views.

From modern facilities, including ATMs, hotels, bars, and shopping centers, to ancient houses and culture, Namche Bazaar offers everything, making it a prominent hub of the region. The Sherpa culture and warm hospitality also play a vital role in making the Namche Bazaar a significant attraction on the short Everest Base Camp trek.

Tengboche Monastery:

Tengboche Monastery is an important cultural attraction of the Everest Base Camp short trek. The monastery lies in the Tengboche village, at 3860 m (12687 ft). The monastery is one of the region's oldest and most significant monasteries and holds spiritual and cultural importance for locals.

The location is in an environment with panoramic views of Everest, Lhotse, Nuptse, Ama Dablam, and other surrounding peaks. It is a peaceful setting; the monastery attracts you during your short EBC trek. When visiting the Tengboche monastery, you can immerse yourself in its quiet and spiritual nature. The combination of spirituality, mesmerizing scenery, and cultural experience makes the Tengboche monastery a significant attraction in the Everest region.

Everest Base Camp:

Doubtlessly, Everest Base Camp is a prominent attraction of the short trek. As the highest base camp in the world, Everest Base Camp is a dream destination for many trekkers. Getting to the top of Everest Base Camp provides a magnificent view of some of the world's highest peaks, including Lhotse, Nuptse, Ama Dablam, and more.

Along the way to Everest base camp, you'll pass through the biggest glacier in the world, Khumbu Glacier. The glacier captivates natural elements that attract any trekker. The sense of accomplishment you'll get after reaching the top is the next level of happiness you'll get from being attracted to your surroundings.

Sherpa Culture and Hospitality:

Sherpa culture and hospitality are significant attractions that make the EBC short trek a unique experience. The Everest area is home to the Sherpa people, who have a distinctive culture and way of living. You'll learn about the region's unique culture while on the short trek to base camp. Furthermore, experiencing the warm hospitality of Sherpas makes your journey more impressive.

Sherpa's traditional stone houses with prayer flags make your short trek visually attractive. The cultural immersion, pleasant experiences with people, and a chance to see and engage in traditional practices make the journey both physically satisfying and culturally enjoyable, adding to the allure of trekking in EBC.

Trip Itinerary

Boundless Adventure Nepal is a local trekking company based in Kathmandu, Nepal. We arrange several trekking and tour packages. The Short trek to Everest Base Camp within 12 days is also the best.

We provide a Trekking itinerary, Map, and cost details according to the group size. Similarly, look at the trip's itinerary and contact us for cost/price details even though you are traveling solo / with family and friends.

Note: We have add-on options to choose your trip comfortably. Either you may go to Lukla by plane or Helicopter.

Day 01: Fly to Lukla and hike to Phakding. (3-4 hours)

The Lukla Airport is at the top of a hill and has a solitary landing pad that drops into a deep, broad valley. Due to the landforms, beautiful hills surround the path like a massive package of emeralds.

From the Cheplung village, there is a stunning view of the revered Mount Khumbila. Our adventure officially begins after a leisurely morning tea at your Kathmandu hotel.

We will be given transportation to the Tribhuvan International Airport, where we will take a quick flight to Lukla, a mountain village.

Even though you'll only be in the air for a short while, the Mountainous views from your airplane window will make this flight one of your all-time favorites.

Following our landing, we will connect with our traveling group and get started on the Everest Base Camp Trek.

After only about four hours of trekking, we should arrive at the tiny village of Phakding, our destination for the day. After settling in, we'll stay in a Hotel in Phakding.

Day 02: Trek to Namche Bazaar (5-6 hours)

We'll get up early today and eat a hearty breakfast at our lodge. Since we'll walk for roughly six hours today, get a second helping.

Our second day of the short Everest Base Camp Trek gets underway with a hike through a verdant wonderland of cool, shaded woods and hidden waterfalls.

We'll travel over picturesque suspension bridges spanning the Dudh Koshi River and get our first good look at some of the highest peaks in the Himalayas, including the snow-capped Thamserku (6,608 meters).

Then, our route enters Sagarmatha National Park, a vast, outstanding natural beauty that shares its name with Mount Everest in Sanskrit.

After lunch, we'll traverse yet another set of footbridges before catching a glimpse of Mount Everest.

The bustling city of Namche Bazaar is visible from here, merely around the corner. For lodging tonight, at Namche Bazaar.

Day 05: Trek to Dingboche (4 hours)

Pangboche, Somare, and Dibuche are the villages we pass through on our 5th day of the short Everest Base Camp Trek.

Massive white cliffs like Lhotse and AmaDablam monopolize the horizon as we hike through an enjoyable lush jungle and pass a lengthy suspension connection over the Imjakhola River's iridescent waters.

As we get closer to Dingboche, we'll also notice many Mani rocks organized by the snowmobile trails. You should always pass by these Buddhist mantra-adorned rocks on your right side.

Before reaching Dingboche, we'll walk across a sizable area of lush greenery where grain and potatoes are grown. Here, we'll choose a cozy inn where we can stay for the following two nights.

Day 06: Adjustment in Dingboche (4 hours)

In our short Everest Base Camp Trek itinerary, our bodies still need a day to acclimate to the higher altitude.

The trekker's adage is "climb high, sleep low," as usual. This allows us to reach the breathtaking perspectives of Nangkar Tshang Peak (5616m) or Chukhung Village without risk before returning to Dingboche in the late afternoon.

Some of these day hikes offer breathtaking views of the Himalayan peaks Makalu, Lhotse, AmaDablam, and other unnamed peaks.

It would be best to grab a snack this evening at one of the city's butcher shops or cafes. You'll later have an excellent memory of waiting for the sun to set over Dingboche's rock verandas and the mountain ranges' windblown highs. Overnight at Dingboche.

Frequently Asked Questions

What does EBC Trek mean?

The Everest Base Camp Trek is a widely known hiking experience in Nepal that takes trekkers to Mount Everest's base camp at an elevation of 5,364 m (17,598 ft). In the Himalayas, the EBC trek provides an exceptional chance to experience the awe-inspiring beauty of the Everest region. The trek takes you through stunning mountain peaks, sherpa settlements, and diverse landscapes.

What is the cost of the EBC Trek?

The cost of the Everest Base Trek ranges from USD 1100 to USD 1500. However, the cost varies depending on factors including the duration of the trip, the level of comfort you prefer, any luxurious service you want, and whether you hire a guide and porter. Your cost includes three meals a day during the trekking, along with the finest accommodation, permits, a flight ticket to Lukla, a trekking map, and some refundable trekking gear and equipment.

Where is the starting place for the 12-day trek to Everest Base Camp?

The 12-day trek to Everest Base Camp starts at Lukla, which is also the starting point of each trekking destination in the Everest region. To start their journey in the Everest region, trekkers and visitors must arrive at Lukla airport first. You'll have a scenic flight to Lukla airport from the domestic airport in Kathmandu, which generally takes 45 minutes.

How many days does the EBC trek take?

The EBC trek duration generally takes 12 days, but if you have enough time, you can travel for a longer duration by adding extra acclimatization days and side trips to nearby locations. The 12 days are ideal for those with limited time but still want to get to the world's highest trekking destination, EBC. Within 12 days, you'll visit each place that you'll visit in longer trekking days; however, the time will be less for exploration.

Where is EBC Trek?

Everest Base Camp (EBC) trek is in the Khumbu region of Solukhumbu district. The destination lies in the northeastern part of Nepal, near the border with Tibet. The majestic mountain ranges surround the EBC trek. The base camp lies within Sagarmatha National Park at an elevation of 5,364 m (17,598 ft) above sea level at the base of Mount Everest.

Please clarify the highest altitude of the 12-day EBC short trek.

The highest altitude of the EBC short trek is Everest Base Camp itself, which stands at an elevation of 5,364 meters (17,598 feet). Getting to the top of Everest Base Camp offers you views of the surrounding Himalayan peaks and the awe-inspiring beauty of the Everest region. Additionally, trekkers visit the nearby finest viewpoint on the EBC trek, Kalapathar, standing at 5,545 m (18,192 ft).

How challenging is the EBC Trek?

Everest Base Camp Trek is one of the most adventurous trekking destinations in the Everest region and Nepal due to its high altitude and rugged terrain. The trek to Everest Base Camp takes several days to complete, with walking ascent and descent, making the journey physically demanding. Furthermore, the risk of altitude-related sickness is a major concern during the EBC trek. Yet, with proper preparation and an acclimatization plan, you can complete the trek with fewer challenges.

When is the best season for a 12-day Everest Base Camp Trek?

Spring (pre-monsoon) from March to May and autumn (post-monsoon) from September to November are the best seasons for a 12-day Everest Base Camp trek. The stable weather with clear skies and favorable temperatures creates an ideal time for trekking in EBC during autumn and spring. Yet, due to global warming, the summer season is also becoming popular for the EBC trek. The weather is sunny, and days are long during the summer, creating pleasant trekking conditions.

Can a solo traveler do a 12-day Everest Base Camp trek?

Yes, solo travelers can do the 12-day Everest Base Camp trek, but you should trek with a licensed guide who will help you throughout your journey. Having an experienced guide by your side helps you to be free from any worries, as the guide will assist you throughout the journey and ensure your safety.

Do we need trekking permits for even a 12-day trek?

Yes, trekking permits are mandatory, even if you are on a 12-day trek. For a 12-day EBC trek, you need to obtain a Trekkers Information System (TIMS) card and a Sagarmatha National Park permit. Without a permit, you can't continue your trek, as the permit is checked at various checkpoints along the route. However, with no worries, you can obtain both permits for the EBC trek through Boundless Adventure.

How difficult is the 12-day Everest Trek?

The difficulty level of the 12-day Everest trek depends on one's physical fitness, acclimatization plan, and weather conditions. The trek involves covering a distance of 130 km in a round trip, walking over rocky paths, making steep ascends and descends, and crossing suspension bridges over rivers several times, making it a little difficult. Also, due to the short duration, you'll be a little hectic on the 12 days, so we suggest you choose a 14-day itinerary for a more flexible and comfortable journey.

Are we able to get hotels during the 12-day EBC trek?

Yes, you will stay in a hotel throughout the journey; you'll stay in a local tea house or hotel. The tea houses provide simple yet comfortable accommodations and tasty, fresh meals every day. You can also get a hot shower, an electricity facility, and WI-FI in those tea houses, but at an additional cost.

Do hotels have Wi-Fi?

Yes, all along the journey of the Everest base camp trek, the tea houses and hotels have the facility of wifi. Each area's hotel offers you wifi, but the charge for wifi service is extra. However, some trekkers want to get disconnected from any technologies and people throughout the journey and enjoy the natural beauty and peacefulness of the Himalayan landscape.

What type of charging plugs are available in hotels?

During the EBC trek, you'll find electric plugs with two or three circular prongs; however, we suggest you bring two pins of adapters to charge your phone, notepad, laptop, and electric device during the 12-day Everest trek.

Is a hot shower available during the 12 days of the Everest Trek?

Yes, a hot shower is available at each hotel or tea house throughout the 12-day trek to EBC, but it costs extra. A bucket and gas system are also available during the tour. Some areas, including Lukla, Phakding, Namche Bazaar, and Dingboche, have attached bathrooms with gas-heated showers. Most other parts of the hotel provide a bucket system for hot showers.

Can a beginner do Everest Base Camp within 12 days?

With proper preparation, training, and guidance, beginners can also complete the Everest Base Camp trek within 12 days. Indeed, trekking in EBC is adventurous, but those who are in good physical condition can complete the trek. Choosing an itinerary plan for a 12-day trek is necessary. Also, listening to your body, walking slowly, staying hydrated, and being mentally prepared is essential for beginners to complete the Everest Base Camp trek within 12 days.

Is 12 days of the Everest Base Camp Trek an adventure?

Yes, the 12-day Everest Base Camp trek is adventurous due to the challenging terrain, high altitude, and relatively shorter duration. Additionally, the 12-day Everest Base Camp trek involves challenges including altitude sickness and unpredictable weather conditions and provides fewer acclimatization days, making the trek adventurous.

What is different between the 12 and 14 days of the Everest Trek?

The Everest trek can be done in either 12 or 14 days. The 12-day trek requires a faster pace due to its shorter duration, while the 14-day trek allows for a more relaxed journey with additional acclimatization days. Both treks follow the same route from Lukla to Everest Base Camp, but the 14-day trek gives you extra time to adjust to the altitude. With the added days, you can trek at a slower pace and enjoy the journey while adapting to the changing altitude.

What is the optimal group size for a 12-day trek to Everest Base Camp?

The optimal group size for a 12-day trek to Everest Base Camp is 45. With a larger number of groups, we provide group discounts, which reduces your overall cost. Trekking with a larger group is more enjoyable, and you'll feel more enjoyment while trekking and forget about all the challenges that come during your trek.

How do I book the 12-day trek to Everest Base Camp?

Booking the 12-day trek to Everest Base Camp is straightforward. You can book either by online booking or by directly contacting us. When you open our website, Boundless Adventure, you can find the "book the trip" option. After clicking, you can go to the booking producer. If you have any queries regarding the trip, you can message us on WhatsApp. We'll clarify everything, and we'll make your booking after you're satisfied with the package.

Where is the best viewpoint for the 12-day Everest Base Camp Trek?

Kalapathar and Everest Base Camp itself offer the best views during the 12-day trek. At an elevation of 5545m, Klapathar is near the village of Gorakshep. Trekkers go hiking to Klapathar after exploring the Everest Base camp. Usually, trekkers start hiking early in the morning to Kalapathar for the stunning sunrise view over the top of the mountain. One of the reasons why Kalapathar is the best viewpoint on the EBC journey is that it provides a view of Mount Everest that can't be seen from the Everest base camp.

Similarly, several places have luxury hotels, such as Lukla, Manju, Namche Bazaar, and Dingbouche.

The tea houses are comfortable. Every hotel has hot shower facilities, which will cost you extra fees, but they are worth the cost in the freezing temperature of the Himalayas.

You can charge your batteries on electricity. Furthermore, you will also have a warm heating dining hall along the Everest short trek. Every teahouse has double and single beds. You can also request a triple bedroom with your guide if needed.

Arriving at the Base Camp

Your hard work will have been worthwhile because you will feel an incredible sense of accomplishment and pure joy immediately after stepping at the foot of Everest Base Camp. The sense of accomplishment and the mountain views after a strenuous climb will raise your spirits.

Reaching your final destination and celebrating with your fellow hikers while the mighty mountains serve as your backdrop is the best feeling in the world. The day is probably a bit longer than ever, but it will be your goal, and it will be worth every struggle.

Note: We suggest you have dry fruits and a power bank, and also better drink plenty of warm water on your way to Everest Base Camp and avoid alcohol consumption.

What to wear

Nepal is another tiny country in the world, but it has a different climate in every corner. Similarly, you are heading to the Everest Base Camp trek quickly. It would help if you had a down Jacket and down sleeping bag with you every season. Upon your request, we only provide a down jacket and sleeping bag for a walk. But it would be best if you had warm equipment with you.

Local guides

The world-renowned Sherpa and guides have a reputation for being among the friendliest and most accepting people. As they guide you to Base Camp, listen to their inspiring tales and be astounded by their superhuman mountaineering abilities.

You'll always recollect the common bond you had with them. On the other hand, our guide is well-trained, equipped with the proper gear, and holds a genuine guide license from Nepal Government.
